Thank you for submitting your formative.

Ensure the focus of your discussion is around 'X' and political misinformation, [if this is the social media platform you intend to go forward and discuss in this context].

After your initial intentions are stated in the 'Introduction' section, there are then lots of sub-sections around tangents on the subject in your formative [example; examining other social media platforms] and you won't have the word count to do this. It's important to remember you only have 2,000 words for the whole of the summative.

You can briefly draw through comparison regarding how other social media platforms handle political misinformation and this will help build a 'pros' and 'cons' critical debate around your subject matter, but the core of the discussion has to focus on a core topic [hence the comments above].

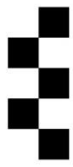

Use a strong and concise introduction and conclusion to the piece, but then ensure that the middle section between the introduction and conclusion are very much focused on a core discussion around your chosen subject matter, looking at the strengths and limitations of research around this.

For the actual summative, ensure that citation is occurring all the way through your content. In-text citation then needs to be reflected in a list of references at the end of the assignment. That list of references needs to be in alphabetical order at the end of the assignment.

For summative ensure that your writing style is wholly formal and academic. Also remember to apply page numbers to your summative document. Ensure that your summative has a critical 'pros and cons' view of discussion, looking at both the positives and negatives of the research that you choose to engage with. It is really important not to just look at one side of research. The content of summative needs to examine different publications and look at different perspectives.

As discussed in live seminars and in student support on the online hub, research for this module is just from secondary research, [and so research that is already in the public domain]. No primary research, [interaction with actual people] is to take place in this module.

Wishing you the best of luck now for your actual summative,

With best wishes

Karen
